Leigh Cured— Psych Student Clears Fog; 'Bells Real as New Frontier'

By Leigh Willson

Great news. Today I threw away my bottle of tranquilizer pills. A psych student specializing in neurotic trauma and cerebral explosions took my case and announced that I was cured.

He finally convinced me that I wasn't hearing bells that other people don't hear.

"Everybody hears them," he assured me, "they're as real as the new frontier."

I gained my composure after a period of jubilation then asked how he struck upon the cure.

"Simple," he answered modestly, "I merely called Building and Grounds Superintendent Clarence Lefler and got the story of the bells."

I sat up on the couch eager to hear the story.

He began: "You hear bells in school on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, right?"

"Yes," I answered, "a lot of them."

"And what do you do when you hear them?"

"I get up and leave class, like everyone else," I said.

"But what happens on Tuesday and Thursday?" he asked.

"I hear bells," I said, starting to tap my fingers, "but nobody else seems to . . . they just sit," I said. My eye was beginning to twitch.

"Ah, but they do hear them," he said. "They have just learned to ignore them. You see," he went on, "Mr. Lefler said the bells ring automatically, and the mechanism is set to ring the bells for times classes are held and dismissed most often . . . and that's 20 and 30 minutes after the hour."

"Thus," he said triumphantly, "in your long Tuesday classes, you hear Monday's bells, just like everyone else."

My eye stopped twitching. "Then I'm cured," I exclaimed, leaping from the couch.

My benefactor stopped and appeared to be listening. "Well, I've got to go," he said, "there's the bell for my next class."

I listened.

"Bell, what bell?"

Science Academy to Hear OU Students Give Papers

Four University students will present science papers at the 71st annual meeting of the Nebraska Academy of Sciences in Lincoln next week-end.

John G. McMillan, head of the Physics Department, and president-elect of the Academy said three of the students are physics majors, the other is majoring in chemistry.

The physics students: Allan Warrior whose paper is entitled "A Study of Some Typical Fuel Cells," William Albright, "Photorhythmic," a machine that will play and blend colors harmoniously rather than play music, and Donald Bauerle, "Ultrasonic Wave Motion," concerns energy similar to sound only on a higher frequency which still can be heard. The energy can be used in cleaning, said Mr. McMillan. "It could take the dirt out of a watchband in nothing flat," he said.

James Kayser, a chemistry student, will present a paper entitled "Use of Spectrophotometer in the Separation of Rare Earth Elements." The machine will "separate many elements that are hard to separate because they are so alike chemically," said Mr. McMillan.

The presentation of the collegiate papers is but one section of the various committees being held.

Lloyd D. Ellerbeck of OU's physics department will be a section chairman of the Chemistry and Physics Committee at the annual meeting.

The Academy also holds Junior Academy of Science meetings for high school science students. One such meeting will be held on OU's campus on April 22. At these meetings students display science papers and experiments.

Dan Treadway of OU's elementary education department, is secretary of the Junior Academy meeting.

Mr. McMillan will begin his term as president of the Nebraska Academy at the opening of the 71st annual meeting. He was elected to that position at the 70th meeting and served during 1960 as a vice-president.

'Peace Corps' Applications Waiting for OU Volunteers

Students interested in President Kennedy's proposed "Peace Corps" have been asked to fill out questionnaires regarding their qualifications and areas of interest.

Available in each dean's office, the forms ask information on the applicant's education, employment experience, language skills, technical abilities, health and hobbies.

OU President Milo Bail noted that little enthusiasm for the program has been generated on campus but he expressed a desire to "co-operate in every way possible to help those who are interested."

He said it is possible that lack of information about the corps may be a factor in the small turnout.

Interest Low

According to a report issued by the American Council on Education, 441 colleges and universities have expressed approval of the Peace Corps. Only 27 of these replying to the survey voiced a negative opinion.

Student-interest, as sampled across the country, has run somewhat less than President Kennedy had hoped for but the council's report indicates that it is still too early to pass judgment.

Elementary and secondary teaching, including literacy education, was the activity in which most institutions thought they could best provide training for participants.

More Testing

According to the questionnaire, volunteers should have "technical ability, physical stamina and emotional stability." They must be able to "adopt themselves to an unfamiliar way of life and to work overseas with peoples of all colors."

Following the written applications, additional tests and interviews, will be conducted. Those ultimately selected will receive special training in this country before assignment overseas.

Normal length of service will be two years.

An ample supply of the questionnaires is available and those with even a slight interest are urged to fill one out. There is no specified deadline but "as soon as possible" is requested.

Chairman Named For '61 Ma-ie Day

Committee chairmen and planning directors for this year's Ma-ie Day celebration were named at a recent meeting of the Student Council.

Heading the parade committee will be Ken Brink, Terry Olsen and Jerry Callahan. Lyle Franzen is in charge of Play Day activities.

Shielah Dunklau and Max Voigt will handle publicity; Judy Flint, courtesy; Sue Morris, dance and decorations; John Hofschire and Max Voigt, breakfast and picnic, and Karolee Wybenga, sunrise dance.

The Council selected "Famous Fantasies" as the theme for this year's holiday and float parade, May 13.

'Kings Men' Next Movie Scheduled

"All The Kings Men" starring Broderick Crawford, Joann Dru, John Ireland and John Derek, will be the next movie shown in the Student Center.

This movie is about a power grabbing governor who builds an empire of corruption.

"All The Kings Men" will be shown free of charge in rooms 312 A-B of the Student Center next Wednesday at 3:30 p. m.

Social Work Day On Campus Today

A social work career day will be held today in the Conference Center, according to Mr. Philip Vogt, Associate Professor of sociology.

A film, "Summer of Decision," will be shown at 10:15 a. m., followed by a speech by Dr. Richard G. Guilford, Director of the Graduate School of Social Work at the University of Nebraska. Dr. Guilford will speak on "Professional Education for Social Work."

Exhibits will be on display at 11:30 a. m. In the afternoon, a Skit, "Social Work at Work," will be presented. It was written and directed by Margaret Williams, Chief of Social Service at the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute.

Hastings College To Present Show

All students have been invited to attend a talent show put on here by Hastings College students April 14.

The idea is not new to state colleges but Omaha U. has been unable to participate in the program for lack of a talent show.

Transfer students from the state colleges have praised these productions in the past and assured the student council that the variety show would be one of high quality.

Sponsored by Hastings as a good-will gesture, the 50-minute production will be presented in the Student Center Ballroom at 2 p. m.

Punch and cookies will be served immediately following. There will be no charge.

Future M.D.s Invited To Nebraska Confab

All students who are planning to attend medical school next year and who wish to attend the University of Nebraska Pre-Med Day are asked to make their reservations with Dr. Marquardt in the chemistry department.

Reservations will not be accepted after April 13. Pre-Med Day will be held April 22.

Faculty Expression Coming in Gateway

Gateway editors feel that some faculty members have ideas and information they would like to express on subjects related and un-related to their field of endeavor.

Consequently, space in the Gateway will be given to faculty members for comments on subjects of their choosing that will be of interest.

This notice may be considered by all faculty members as an invitation to take part in the program.

Thus far, Head of the Political Science Department, William Utley and Head of the Psychology Department, Dr. William Jaynes have consented to prepare material for the next two issues of the Gateway.

Others showing interest include: Dr. Wilfred Payne, Head of the Philosophy Department; Dr. Aldrich Paul, Head of the Speech Department; Roderic B. Crane, Head of the Economics Department; Dr. James Peterson, Head of the Music Department; and Dr. Donald Marquardt, Head of the Chemistry Department.

This list should not be considered all-inclusive or exclusive, remembering that all faculty members are asked to participate.

Great Professor Is Roderic Crane

The Alumni Great Professor Lecture Series will present Roderic B. Crane, Head of the Economics department, at the Monday night session in the Student Center Ballroom at 7:30.

Mr. Crane will use a half hour to discuss "New Developments in the Economics Scene."

An informal coffee session will follow the speech and after that a discussion period.

The presentation is open to students, faculty, alumni and guests.

Cinerama Available At New Student Rate

Reserved seat tickets are now on sale for $1.75. Regular admission is $2.50.

Beyond 30

By Ken Zimmerman

In a move that came as a surprise to many, the Air Force recently announced that, in some fields, its Bootstrap Program will be extended from six to as many as 12 months.

What affect this will have on the OU campus is yet to be seen but the implications are great.

At present, OU and the University of Maryland are the only institutions in the nation offering special, accelerated sessions geared to the six-month bootstrapper.

This is undoubtedly a factor in the large military enrollment experienced here.

Currently, there are some four hundred bootstrappers at OU.

Many of these career military men hold high rank and longevity which amount to considerable salaries.

In dollars and cents, these temporary residents spend an estimated two million dollars a year living in Omaha.

While the Chamber of Commerce is out beating the drums for new industries to locate in our fair city, it's a fair guess they have paid little or no attention to the buying power represented in the bootstrap program.

At any rate, it should be interesting to see if OU can maintain the attraction it now enjoys when the need for special attention is abolished.

If not, the University and the city of Omaha may suffer a blow much greater than was first realized when the new program was announced and greeted with little more than passing attention.

Non-Pro's Attend Radio-TV Session

Omaha University's Radio-TV Department conducted its annual American Women in Radio and Television Workshop this week.

The workshop is designed for the non-professional who frequently uses broadcasting, and who would like to know more about using radio and television to inform the public of ideas, drives, events, and projects of their various organizations. 30 persons from the Omaha area attended the workshop.

The program entitled "Broadcasting... Learning to Use It!" covered many phases of the broadcasting medium featured local broadcasting personnel speaking and demonstrating: how to prepare news releases, public service messages, interviews, programs, and how to act during a television program.

OU Radio-TV Department Head Paul Borge presided over the workshop's activities, and members of his television techniques class acted as crews for three on-the-air demonstrations. The demonstrations by local television personalities diagrammed the "do's" and "don't's" of television programming.

OU journalism and radio news students attended a portion of the workshop listening to Mark Gautier, assistant KMTV news director, discuss the topic "Making News." Mr. Gautier told "how to" and "how not to" present a news release to broadcasting stations and the basis of good public relations in sending a news release to a station.

Alums Successful In '61 Fund Drive

OU Alumni surpassed last year's fund drive total by $3,200. They collected $10,522, reported at their banquet March 23. The 175 workers were the guests of President Milo Ball and the Alumni Association at the banquet.

Alumni Director Betty Davis said that she hoped the total would reach $12,000 by the August 31 deadline. Donations from non-alums are still being accepted and the report from the 15 national chapters is incomplete.

Each division (five) collected over $1,000.

Four areas will receive money from the $10,522. They include four student scholarships, athletic grants-in-aid, the building fund and alumni activities.

Prizes at the banquet were awarded to Mrs. Janet Cragh, first, for collecting $505; Donald J. Pjellin, second, for $321, and Lenita Anderson, third, for $304. Mrs. Cragh won a weekend expense-paid vacation at Lake Okajobi.

One-hundred-forty-five dollars was given by the Alumni Association at the Student Center birthday party. The check will go for a couch outside the Ballroom.

Despite persistent rumors, there are no plans to put the football field in the soil bank.

Child Study Group Utilizes OU Help

Delegates to the Association for Childhood Education international convention which met in Omaha this week visited the Omaha University Child Study Service Center Wednesday.

Many OU student-teachers filled in at the city's elementary schools to allow the regular teachers to serve as hosts and hostesses at the convention headquarters.

Leadership Spirit Is Waokiya Theme

"Spirit of Leadership" is the theme for the Waokiya Leadership Conference to be held April 19.

The president, vice president, secretary, social chairman, treasurer, ritual chairman, and sponsor of each organization on campus are invited to attend this year's workshop.

Pre-registration fees of $1.50 must be paid by April 13th or 14th. The pre-registration fee will cover the cost of the officer's manual and the luncheon which will be in the University Ballroom.

The group will meet in the Library Conference Center from 9:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m.

Attending officers will be excused from classes for the Conference.

1500 Functions Held Student Center Offers Space For On-Campus Gatherings

By Sharon Johnson

Since September, 1960, over 15 hundred functions have been held at the University, almost all of them in the Student Center.

On the third floor of the Center are conference rooms which have come to be the meeting grounds for many organizations.

Often students have made adverse comments on non-campus groups using the facilities.

Mrs. Thelma Engle, University hostess, said that only University-connected groups have been able to use these rooms. Open Forum, sponsored by the College of Adult Education, is one of these groups. Many professional Greek organizations also hold monthly meetings.

"Every week a number of civic groups call and want to schedule meetings but are turned down because they are in no way connected with University functions," Mrs. Engle commented.

The only exception, she said, have been sessions held by "community service" groups such as the Good Government Association.

To obtain a room for a meeting an organization must first apply for a petition in the Dean of Students office. If approved, the group is assigned a room by Mrs. Engle.

Regular meetings must be held in reserve rooms signed for at least 48 hours prior to the hour needed. Ten rooms on the third floor are available for meetings at all hours of the day.

Regulations concerning the use of the rooms as outlined in the Student Handbook:

—All formal social affairs and large informal affairs must be held either on Friday or Saturday evenings preceding a University Holiday. Small informal affairs may be held at other times.

—Publicity for social gatherings should not be given out until they have been approved by the Dean's office. Requests for permission to hold social functions must be made less than seven days before the event.

—Any function attended by both men and women must be properly chaperoned by faculty members.

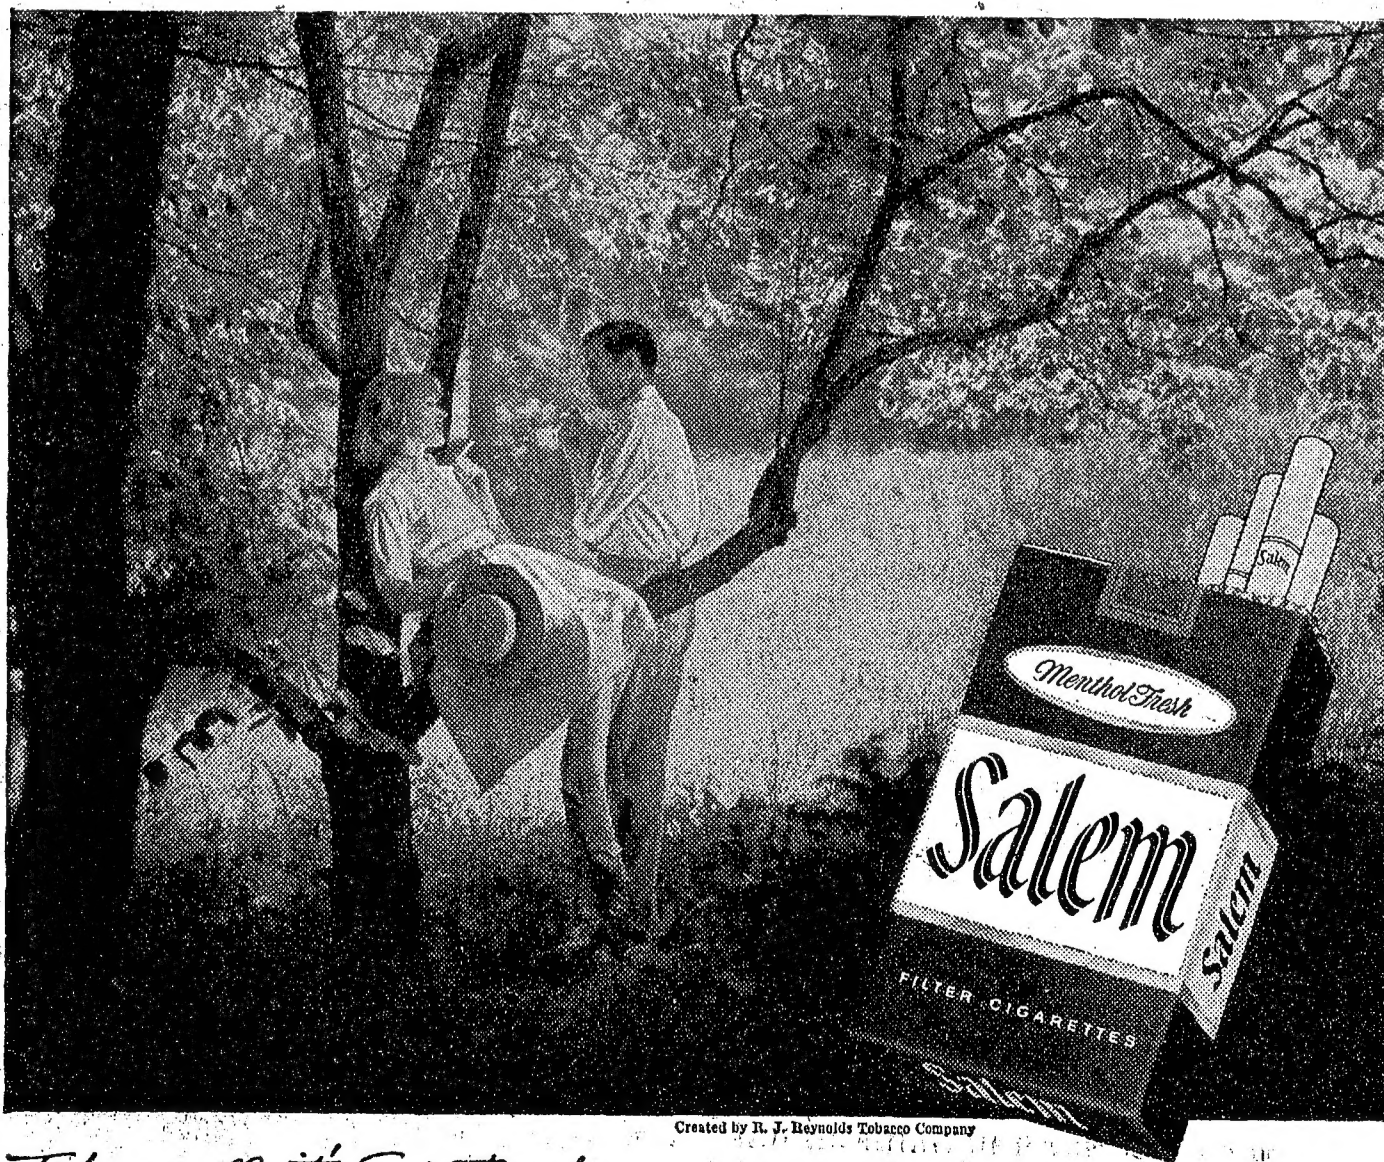

If any group desires food service, the matter is handled by the University facilities. A school ruling forbids food being brought in for a meeting.

Although many organizations have complained of lack of meeting space, Curt Siemers, assistant dean of men, said the rooms are not yet being used to their full capacity. Tight schedules exist only on Greek meeting nights, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mrs. Engle said only "reasonable care" is asked of users. Decorating may be done if first cleared with her office.

There were talks of televising the Activities Study Committee hearings but the sponsor couldn't decide whether to call it "Day in Court," "The Great Debate," or "Truth or Consequences."

Beauty, Brains Bring Honors To Freshman Diane Schulze

By Carole Seibert

Beauty and brains have combined to make Freshman Dianne Schulze a popular "figure" around the Omaha University campus.

On March 14, Dianne was announced as the "Best Dressed Woman" on the campus. Pictures of her have been submitted to Glamour Magazine for the "Ten Best Dressed Coeds in America" contest.

Dianne said she dresses "according to moods." She doesn't like to see a coed wearing slacks to school or clothes that are too extreme.

"Just because we're at an educational institution, we shouldn't advertise by our clothing that our studies are heavy. A coed should feel that she is dressed as appropriately for class as for off-campus occasions."

She likes the "ivy league look," for men.

At the Greek Week banquet Dianne was one of four women pledges awarded a scholarship trophy. She had a 4.0 grade average. Further proof of her scholarship ability is that she achieved membership in Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman women's honorary.

She is attending OU on the Omaha Regents' and Sears, Roebuck Scholarships.

Dianne has become interested in philosophy, especially religious philosophy. She finds the different ways man worships God "fascinating." Every Sunday she goes to a different church and later analyzes its form of worship and beliefs.

"Religion is the core of man," Dianne said. "It influences man's thinking and his actions. By learning the basis of other religions, you can rid yourself of prejudice."

Dianne, a journalism major and English minor, has several plans for the future. She wants to work on a magazine, preferably a fashion magazine. She also plans to get a teacher's certificate.

Dianne is affiliated with Chi Omega sorority and is a member of its rush board. She also belongs to the Women's Recreational Association.

OU Ball Squad At Sioux City

The University of Omaha baseball squad opens its 1961 campaign this afternoon with a double header against Morningside College at Sioux City. The Indians will travel to Hastings Tuesday for a twin bill.

The Tribe, as they open a 20 game schedule, will be attempting to better their 19-5 record of last year and continue their dominance over the two opponents. OU dropped Morningside 8-1 last season in the NAIA tourney and swept a twin bill from the Broncos.

An 18 man squad will make the trip to Sioux City. Starting lineups for the contests will not be available until game time.

Possible hurlers for the four contests, though, will probably be selected from four lettermen and two rookies. Dave Aden, Mike Coughlin, Gary Wentworth and Barry Miller are the veterans while Mike Szemplenski and Ron Horacek are the newcomers.

Fourteen Head For South Dakota

Coach Lloyd Cardwell announced a 14 man traveling squad for the track opener at the University of South Dakota Relays tomorrow. He said that the Indians will pick up their share of points. Last year OU finished fourth in the same tournament.

Omaha talent will be spread thin, but the Indians will enter every event with the exception of the half-mile. OU will be well represented in the sprints and relays, but only one is entered in the javelin, shot put, discus and pole vault.

Golf Team Meets Academy, Wesleyan

The golf team will open its schedule with a triangular tomorrow in Lincoln. Furnishing the opposition for the Indians will be The United States Air Force Academy and Nebraska Wesleyan.

Coach Bob Anthes says that this year's team will not be as strong as the previous two. He said Wednesday that five of the six who will play in the Lincoln match at Pioneer Park have been selected and that two bootstrappers were fighting it out for the final position.

The three lettermen will lead the linksters tomorrow. Coach Anthes said that senior Dick Socha is playing very well and should have his best competitive season. Junior Bob Julich and Robin Hill are the other two lettermen.

Anthes named Jim Dworak and John Gaffney as the other decided members for the traveling squad.

In case you are not familiar with the scoring in collegiate golf matches, here is the way it goes: One point is awarded for the match play winner on each nine holes of the regulation 18 hole match. One point is also given for the low medal score over the full 18 holes. In other words, a total of three points is possible.

Tennis Opener April 10

Tennis coach Sonny Means has had his squad practicing irregularly because of the bad weather.

Returning lettermen Dick Donelson and Lee Perkins along with Jim Belitz, a transfer from Creighton University figure to be the top three on the squad.

The squad's first match will be with Midland here on Monday, April 10th, and on Friday, April 14th they will be playing the University of Nebraska at Lincoln.

Spring football began Tuesday with 36 players reporting for practice. Coach Al Caniglia considered the turnout satisfactory. Caniglia stated that "depth and size of the line is superior to that of last fall. Five backs will skip practice to participate in spring sports." Fourteen players returned from last fall's team. Glen Hepburn, junior college transfer, shifted from end to fullback. Veteran quarterback Dave Gibson and transfer Carl Meyers are handling the passing.

Track Meet May 4th

How far can a woman put the shot? Can a woman throw a softball as far as a man?

May 4th is the date of the Women's Track and Field Meet to be held from 3:30 to 5:30 in the afternoon. The event, sponsored and conducted by the Women's Recreation Association, may be entered by any interested college woman.

Such events as the 50 yard dash, the high jump, the broad jump, hurdles, shot-put, discus, softball throw, relays, and the hop-step and jump will be featured. Contestants may enter three events. Those interested in the competition should sign up in the women's P.E. hut.
